

In case you missed it...

Three weeks down, three to go. If you're struggling to keep on top of your exam revision, please don't panic. Check out our tips on planning, approach and practice instead.

Just getting through the school day at this time of year is enough to serve up some serious stress. So, next time you feel it's all getting too much, try one of these simple ways to find calm.

Whilst it might seem like everyone is talking about university, it's also OK to consider your options. In fact, there's a whole world of practical and vocational paths to explore.

Here comes the sun

The weather's hotting up, evenings are lighter and school's nearly out. The only thing making today better? The latest Classroom to Careers newsletter landing in your inbox. Ta-da! This month's edition will be the last for a while (hey, your local skills hub deserves a break too), so we've crammed it full of useful stuff to help you make the most of the summer holidays. Catch you on the flip side.

Don't miss: Confident Futures Skills Show

Know someone with SEND in need of some career inspiration? Head down to Stoke Mandeville Stadium on Tuesday 13th June between 3.30pm and 5.30pm for our sensory-conscious skills show. You'll discover over 40 employers and next step providers, including Le Manoir aux Quat'Saisons, the National Film and Television School and Flannery Plant Hire, and even more opportunities.

Newsflash!

Over fifty students in England will receive a £5,000 bursary (covering up to 50% of university fees!) to pursue a career in planning, where thriving neighbourhoods are created. This new scheme is aimed at disadvantaged students, such as those who have financial struggles, care responsibilities or disabilities, to help boost diversity across the sector.

Parents' corner

Our upcoming Confident Futures Skill Show isn't just for students. If you own a business and would like to learn about the government scheme that helps you embrace the opportunities provided by employing disabled people, drop by the lunchtime session (12-1pm).

Any plans for summer?

Whilst having fun and relaxing is an important part of the holidays, there's nothing worse than getting to the end of the six-week stretch and realising you haven't done anything productive. Not this year though! We've rounded up the best careers workshops, events and other opportunities to help you get the most out of your time off.

Comedians get 'real jobs'

Ever wondered whether Russell Kane would make a good Zookeeper? No, us neither... but by stepping into a pair of wellies, the comedian has provided a useful insight into the benefits of an apprenticeship (they don't all involve rhino poo).

Surviving results day

No matter how well you think your exams went, it's natural to feel on edge as results day approaches. The good news is that if you don't receive the grades you were hoping for, it doesn't have to spell the end of your academic journey.
